OVERVIEW

An experienced litigator, Jon is a partner at Hackett Feinberg. He has represented clients in complex business litigation and white-collar criminal defense matters for over 15 years, advising a full range of clients, including multi-million-dollar public and private companies, closely-held corporations, partnerships, and individuals, who conduct business locally, nationally, and internationally.

Jon operates as an advocate and counselor to his clients, providing representation in a variety of areas including contract, trade secret, antitrust, fraud, employment, shareholder, and partnership disputes. He also has extensive experience in white collar criminal defense and corporate compliance matters, representing both executives and corporations. In both civil and criminal matters, Jon has conducted internal corporate investigations, including those related to False Claims Act and Foreign Corrupt Practices Act allegations, for both large, multi-national companies and for smaller entities. He works with his clients to find the most effective strategy for a particular matter, whether that involves settlement negotiation, alternative dispute resolution in arbitration or mediation, or handling matters in federal or state court.

Jon joined Hackett Feinberg in 2023, after having practiced at two multinational law firms and two Massachusetts-based litigation boutiques. He is admitted to the bar in Massachusetts, New York, and Maine, and has practiced extensively in both state and federal courts in Massachusetts and New York. Jon, his wife, and their three children live in Acton.
